David Edmonds

Ceramic Design

After selling his bicycle at 14 and buying a potter's wheel David has been making, exhibiting, designing and teaching in ceramics for over 40 years. Currently teaching at Art and Design UNSW (COFA). Recently celebrating 16 years in business, producing and exporting an original range of design led dinnerware for the quality homeware, corporate and design markets in Australia, the US, UK, Hong Kong, Singapore, South Korea and NZ. David has a unique perspective on designing and manufacturing an original product line. His work has been featured in numerous print media, TV and in many restaurants and has been commissioned by a variety of organisations in Australia and even for MAD Museum art and design New York. In his presentation, David will discuss the creative challenge of producing an original, ceramic design product for the Australian market and demonstrate a hand building technique practised for a new body of sculptural work realising 2D graphics into 3D ceramic forms

The CSG holds monthly meetings and occasional workshops with guest presenters from Australia and overseas. Members receive a monthly Newsletter, have the opportunity to borrow from our up-to-date library of books, magazines and DVD's, and also have access to our own wood fired kiln. The CSG is an excellent forum for experienced potters, beginners and students alike, to learn and to network.
